

Some important information:

To cross the “Avançon de Nant”

Warning:

The weather of 2021 has damaged - to say the least - the magnificent footbridge put in place by the Commune of Bex. Destroyed and moved by the bad weather, it is no longer of any use, and crossing the “Avançon” can be very uncertain, even impossible depending on its daily flow.

Two alternatives exist: The first between “Pont-de-Nant” and “La Tourche”, follow the "Variante" marking of the TdM, by the “Trou à l'Ours”, “Cinglo”, “Euzanne”, “Javerne”, and the “Croix de Javerne”.

The second possibility consists in crossing the “Avançon” by the footbridge intended to allow the ascent to the “Trou à l'Ours”, and as soon as you have crossed the torrent, follow its left bank, until you reach the traditional path. In the opposite direction, this path is of course also possible.

For information, this adaptation is now really adopted, duly marked, and the signs have been adapted. This path along the left bank has thus become official, and the maps will be updated as soon as possible. This new path is already visible on SwitzerlandMobility, as a provisional route - while waiting for the definitive update.

Col des Perris Blancs

Important notice:

Following the accidents that occurred in this section in the last few years, and the deterioration of the terrain last spring, thus increasing the risks, the Commune of Bex has decided to close this section.

The path linking the place called "Les Martinets" to the “Col des Perris Blancs” is no longer maintained, and its signs are being removed.

Appropriate signs have been placed at each end of the trail.

The route between “Pont-de-Nant” and the “La Tourche” cabin passes through the “Grande Vallée” and the “Col-des-Martinets” and is duly marked in white-red-white.

Moreover, the passage under the “Vire-aux-Bœufs” has been very recently perfectly equipped with a chain, and the path has been remade, by the maintenance teams of the Commune of Bex - a big thank you to them!

In order to allow people who want to avoid these sometimes vertiginous passages, an option has been duly marked: you will find specific indications between the place called "Les Mas", at the bottom of the “Vallon de Nant”, and the Tourche cabin. This easy and pleasant path will make you discover the “Trou-à-l'Ours”, “Cinglo”, the alpine pastures of “Euzanne” and “Javerne”, as well as the small summit of the “Croix-de-Javerne”
